

CIH^{LMU} Public Health Symposium 2016

Public Health Challenges of Forced Migration

Saturday, March 19, 2016

Auditorium A202, Department of Anatomy, Pettenkoferstrasse 11, LMU Munich

Morning Session

8:30-9:00	Registration
9:00-9:05	Introduction
9:05-9:15	Welcome Remarks Dr. Guenter Froeschl, Center for International Health Ludwig-Maximilians Universität Munich, Germany
9:15-10:00	Global migration in the 21st century: Exploring the intertwined dynamics between conflict and health Prof. Bayard Roberts, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, United Kingdom
10:00-10:30	Disease pattern and distribution among asylumseekers Dr. Sabine Vygen, Robert Koch Institute, Germany
10:30-11:00	Coffee Break
11:00-11:30	Demand for health services by migrants in host European countries Ms. Marion Chenevas, MPH, Doctors of the World, Germany
11:30-12:00	Infectious diseases and migration: The case of Tuberculosis Dr. Florian Neuhaus, University of Heidelberg, Germany
12:00-13:30	Lunch and Poster Presentation

Afternoon Session

13:30-14:00	Health for migrants in Germany: The Refudocs Concept Dr. Mathias Wendeborn, Refudocs, Germany
14:00-14:30	Experiences of Doctors of the World with refugees in transit Mr. Hans Stubbe, Doctors of the World, Germany
14:30-15:00	Personal experiences of migrants Migrant Speaker, Syria
15:00-15:30	Coffee Break
15:30-16:50	Panel Discussion: Myths and facts about forced migrants Dr. Guenter Froeschl (Moderator)
16:50-17:00	Closing Remarks

Certificate of Participation will be given to attendees

