The Center for International Health is located at the hospital of the Ludwig-Maximilians-University Munich (LMU). The Center with its partner universities has been promoting international cooperation in the field of medical education and research since 2009. The vision and overarching aim of the CIH<sup>LMU</sup> is to empower health professionals. With this vision, CIH<sup>LMU</sup> aspires to meet health-related challenges through capacity building in training and research. With the new OH-TARGET (One Health Training and ReseARch Global NETwork) project, established in 2020, the vision of the CIH<sup>LMU</sup> has expanded to a more participatory and interdisciplinary approach to improve global health conditions.

The aim of the CIH<sup>LMU</sup> guest lectureship, is to establish the Agenda 2030 relevant One Health focus at the USFX as CIH<sup>LMU</sup> partner university and to integrate particularly committed and qualified alumni into the labour market in a way that is appropriate for training. It contributes to strengthening the network with the involvement of non-university partners and promotes the development of context- oriented approaches to solve health problems within local structures.

Your future tasks:

- Decentralized control of the network;
- Advice, recruitment and support of suitable candidates for the OH-TARGET training programmes;
- Local multiplier function, in particular to inform local stakeholders and politicians, e.g. through regular roundtable discussions;
- Advice for applicants for OH-TARGET projects;
- Establishment of One Health as research focus at the partner university;
- Implementation of the One Health Modules at the partner university;
- Advising partners and alumni on scientific publications and applications for third-party funding;
- Organization of workshops at the partner universities.

Your Profile:

- PhD in health sciences
- CIH<sup>LMU</sup> alumna or alumnus (i.e. holding a PhD or MSc of the CIH<sup>LMU</sup>)
- Passport from a country in the global south
- High level of Spanish and English
